Toasted Wheat Biscuit with Tomatoes—Pour over each biscuit required a teaspoonful of melted butter. Lay the biscuits in a well-buttered baking dish and cover them with thick slices of peeled tomatoes, well seasoned with sprinklings of salt, black and red pepper. Cook for ten or fifteen minutes and serve hot.

Cucumber Oysters—Pare and cut cucumbers into quarter-inch thick slices lengthwise; dust with salt and pepper, dip in a batter made of beaten egg, flour and milk and fry in hot, shallow fat until tender and a rich brown. Serve hot. (Ladies' Waist.)

Quick Whole Wheat Bread—Sift a teaspoonful of salt and four slightly rounded teaspoonfuls of baking powder into a quart of whole wheat flour. Into this chop a tablespoonful of butter or sweet dripping. Moisten with enough milk to make a soft dough—about three cupsful will be required—handling as little and as lightly as possible. Have the dough very soft. Form into small loaves and bake in brick-shaped tins in a brick oven. Many students of dietetics consider the quickly baked bread better than that which has been raised with yeast.

Lady Finger Sandwiches—Put a slice of banana between the lady fingers and serve with cream. Very nice for children.

Peach Puffs—Pare and halve fresh, ripe peaches. Beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth; add four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, a pinch of

LADIES' SHIRT WAIST.

Here is a plain practical shirt waist model for the young woman who wishes such a design for wear with her tailored suit. It is made with tucks at the shoulders and front, and a small collar at the neck. The pattern is cut in sizes 22 to 42 inches bust measure. Medium size will require 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.

The pattern can be obtained by sending 10 cents to the Fashion Department of The Washington Herald.

delight, delicious, nourishing, and with a feast of some sort of sweets at the end. That was the best of it, and the worst was that many of the little folk with carefully packed baskets invariably flocked around the more fortunate ones insistently inviting an exchange of "snacks." And the difference was not of money, but of care and degree of

Yes, "housekeeping is a noble art and a high vocation," when carried to its last analysis.

NEW GLASS RODS FOR THE BATHROOM

Improved "Fixings" Which Interest the Fall Bride.

Both the autumn bride and the housekeeper who are in need of new bathroom fixings will be interested in the three-quarter glass towel rods which have just come out. In a small bathroom, where all the furnishings must be as small as possible, even the size of the towel rod counts. The brackets of these new rods are nickel-plated on brass, which prevents them from rusting. They come in many sizes, the shortest being fifteen inches long and the longest four-eight inches, so any woman ought to find one of the proper size to fit her bathroom.

The corner rod is another good one for a tiny room, as the bracket of this style rod is shaped so that it can be screwed into a corner. This type of rod comes from fifteen to twenty-four inches in length.

A trio of small rods only five-eighths of an inch in diameter, which are very compact and will be found very convenient on these can be hung all the necessary towels, as well as wash cloths. Little sets for holding soap, tumbler and six tooth brushes come in this size and are intended for either a small or large bathroom. A neat little tumbler designed especially for a small room has a round nickel plate below, through which six tooth brushes may be slipped.

Many of the department stores are having sales in bathroom fixings this month. The future bride will, therefore, do well to take advantage of these reduced rates and buy her bathroom fixtures now.

Good to Remember.

To clean a piece of fine embroidery, use bran water, which can be made in this way: Put half a pint of bran into the same amount of cold water and let it come to the boil slowly. After it has boiled for twenty minutes strain off the bran water and add a pint of boiling water. Use this mixture instead of soap when washing fine work, fine embroidery and lace for the first time. Be careful not to wring, rub or twist them.

A Few New Points.

Brown with a decided leaning toward the golden tones is seen everywhere among smart gowns.

Stockings are frequently inset with real lace; and this again even embroidered with beads or jewels.

In many cases the train of an evening gown is finished with a large tassel, the material being gathered into it.

Glycerin for Hands.

In some cases very tender and easily chapped skin will yield to the treatment of glycerin, applied immediately after washing, when the skin is moist. Do not apply it to a dry skin; rub thoroughly into the skin, and then rub with a little good cold cream.

Pickled Cauliflower.

Pickled cauliflower is so good that every housewife ought to have some put away for a rainy day. It is good, too, on bright days, first, last and all the time, as the political cheerers say.

Fashion Hints.

Deep red shades are coming more to the front than was anticipated earlier in the season.

According to plating has been revived and many of the newest skirts are treated in this manner.

GHOST WALKS TODAY FOR PEDAGOGUES

District School-teachers to Receive Salaries and Stores Get Ready for Big Business.

The "ghost" will walk for the school-teachers of Washington to-day. Approximately $300,000 will be distributed to the teachers, and department stores are making ready to hold full classes on autumn styles and winter novelties.

Teachers of the District of Columbia School yesterday certifying to the pay rolls. Among items of regular salaries about $12,000 will be paid in the next few days to teachers and during 1910 and the first two months of 1911 lost their pay when absent from school.

Prior to December, 1910, a teacher when absent from duty continued to draw her pay and held her position. Beginning with December, 1910, the teacher lost her pay when absent and the District paid the substitute.

Miss Mildred Dean brought suit to rule and order the District under this rule, and the court has sustained her complaint. The District Auditor has been authorized to approve warrants for the amounts involved in the suit.

Against the longevous pay fund, in the absence of a specific appropriation.

BITES FOR MAJ. J. M. CARSON.

IRRIGATIONISTS BEGIN SESSIONS

Twentieth National Congress Convened in Salt Lake City with Much Speechmaking.

Salt Lake City, Sept. 25.—The Twentieth National Irrigation Congress opened here to-day in the great Mormon Tabernacle. The spacious edifice was filled with delegates and visitors. It was in this very building that the first National Irrigation Congress was held just twenty years ago.

After a prelude on the great organ, the queen of irrigation was introduced, with her maids of honor, represented by a fair Utah belle from every county in the State.

The congress was called to order by Maj. Richard W. Young, grandson of Brigham Young, who is chairman of the executive committee.

There was another selection on the organ, an ode to irrigation, written and played by Prof. John J. McMillan, after which Senator Francis G. Newlands was introduced as president of the congress.

Two happy welcoming speeches were made by Gov. Spry and Mayor Park, which were responded to by Senator Newlands.

The afternoon session was devoted to speechmaking by prominent visitors to the congress and by its former presidents.

It is probable that the streets of the Mormon capital have never presented a livelier picture than to-day. There is a three-fold interest that has served to draw to the city hosts of people from all over the intermountain region. In addition to the Irrigation Congress, there is the State fair, and immediately following the congress the annual conference of the Mormon Church will open.

But to-day the congress holds the center of the stage. To-night the streets of the city are emblazoned as never before with a magnificent street pageant.

RETURNS TO MANAGUA.

Admiral Southerland Back at Nicaraguan Capital.

Admiral Southerland has returned to Managua, leaving Maj. Butler in charge of Granada, according to dispatches to the Navy Department from Nicaragua yesterday. Maj. Butler is keeping the Third Battalion of Marines and a large body of blue-jackets with him in Granada. He is engaged in collecting all the arms and ammunition in the hands of the rebel forces and others. These, which were the property of the Nicaraguan government, will be returned to the administrative authorities at Managua.

Col. Penland, with the First Battalion of Marines, returned to Managua with Admiral Southerland. It is possible that Col. Penland may be called upon to go to Leon, whence calls for aid are now being received at the American Legation.

It is reported that the government forces are bombarding the rebel stronghold at Harancas, near Masaya. According to advices received here, the government troops should have little difficulty in defeating the rebels under Zeledon.

Defective Rail Cause of Accident.

The accident on the Washburn Railroad near West Lebanon, Ind., on March 7, in which two passengers were killed and eighty-five injured, was caused by a defective rail, according to the report made yesterday by H. W. Balmat, chief inspector of the Interstate Commerce Commission. No blame is attached to the railroad officials or employees.
